

Periodic Table of the Elements

A stylized periodic table of elements represented by colored blocks. The table is arranged in seven rows. The first row has two blocks: a pink one on the left and a purple one on the right. The second row has four blocks: a green one, an orange one, a blue one, and a purple one. The third row has four blocks: a green one, an orange one, a pink one, and a purple one. The fourth row has 11 blocks: a green one, an orange one, a pink one, a blue one, a pink one, a brown one, and a purple one. The fifth row has 11 blocks: a green one, an orange one, a pink one, a blue one, a pink one, a brown one, and a purple one. The sixth row has 11 blocks: a green one, an orange one, a yellow one, a pink one, a blue one, a pink one, a brown one, and a purple one. The seventh row has 11 blocks: a green one, an orange one, a blue one, a pink one, a blue one, a pink one, a brown one, and a purple one.

A horizontal row of 14 colored blocks. The top row consists of 14 light orange blocks. The bottom row consists of 14 teal blocks.