

Two family teams, 1. _____ with five members, would guess what "100 people surveyed" had said in response to a 2. _____ (e.g. "we asked 100 people to name something associated with the country 'Italy'" or "we asked 100 people to name something you'd associate with the word 'family'"). For each question, a 3. _____ member of each family would guess the answer, give the best answer, and the family of the correct one 4. _____ (and the better question would have the right to guess first, and the family whose member gave the highest answer would have the opportunity "play" by not doing all the answers on "Team" giving the other family the 5. _____ to find the answers they would usually play). If a family managed to come up with all the answers given by the "100 people surveyed" (most commonly via their only part of the show, called a "win" after the commercial break), they would 6. _____ the points equivalent of the total number of people who had given the answers. Every 7. _____ someone did not give an answer that was on the board, the family would receive a "strike", accompanied by a large "S" marker board with the following "strategy" 8. _____ (The best way not only to have an "answer," unless, he will say that a family has "two from left" or "one left left") If they come up with three strikes, the other family would have the chance to come up with one answer that 9. _____ to correct the missing answers. If this correct was wrong, they give to the "100 people surveyed". The other family would "lose" the money if not, the family who had given the three incorrect answers would win the money 10. _____

- | | | | |
|----------------|---------|----------|----------|
| 1. all | with | and | any |
| 2. ask | asking | question | question |
| 3. different | another | other | and |
| 4. strike | struck | wins | if |
| 5. opportunity | chance | but | any |
| 6. find | lose | no | the |
| 7. big | small | correct | the |
| 8. guess | used | has | has |
| 9. win | lose | right | right |
| 10. however | though | although | anyway |