

Black

Red

Gold

German Flag: When Germany was divided, the east German flag had the same coloring but had the coat of arms in the center. When the Berlin wall came down, many east Germans cut the center out of their flags to represent their new unified country.