

Didn't change colors did it? That's because the Bible says "there is none good, but God." "But wait a minute!" you say, "I've never robbed a bank or killed anyone! I am a good person!" Lets look at Gods law, the Ten Commandments to see how HE sees you: Have you ever told a lie? If so, you are a liar! Have you ever stolen anything? Even something small? If so, you are a thief! Have you ever used Gods name in vain? (Oh my G-O-D) If so, you are a blasphemer! Jesus said, you shall not commit adultery, but if you look with lust, you commit adultery in your heart! God knows your thoughts, and your intentions! If you are honest, you know you will be guilty of breaking Gods law, and therefore must be punished. But that is not Gods will. He sent Jesus to suffer and die in your place so you could go free. We broke Gods law, but Jesus paid our fine. That means God can "dismiss our case". If you will repent (confess and forsake your sins) and put your trust in Jesus, God will forgive your sins and grant you the gift of eternal life in heaven. Please do that today, you may never have another chance.
