

Toilet Etiquette

Rule #1: Flush the toilet after: dropping off the kids, extinguishing a cigarette, emptying your bladder or emptying an ashtray. Failure to follow this rule will result in management hiring a men's room attendant and all employees will be required to pay his salary.

Rule #2: Replace the toilet paper roll when it is finished or down to the last 10 sheets. Failure to follow this rule will result in management canceling all toilet tissue purchases & installing bidets.

Rule #3: Wipe down the washbasin after: spitting out phlegm, washing your face and hands or praying at the altar on Onan (look it up). Failure to follow this rule will result in management removing the sink and replacing it with a Gojo dispenser.

Rule #4: Aim. If your cocksmanhood isn't up to par, please practice at home. Failure to follow this rule will result in management lowering the bathroom ceilings to a height of 42" so that everyone will be forced to sit.

Rule #5: Ventilate. After baking a ripe cake, please leave the bathroom fan (light) on and close the door. Failure to follow this rule will result in management closing down the bathrooms and installing Port-A-San lavatories outdoors.
