

Mariah,

LovingFromADistance.com

I have rewritten these thoughts over and over and not once has it been good enough, so this time I decided to go for simplicity. I love you. I love you more than anything. This necklace and bracelet belonged to my grandmother. They may not be as much your style as you'd like, but I hope you like them any way.

I took so long to write to you because I wanted to think of a better way to say what's on my mind, but there really isn't any other way. I love you more than I thought I was capable of. I miss you so much when I'm not talking with you it's like an addict without a fix. You're not a drug in my veins, but in my heart, in my soul, and on my mind. You are the love of my life. You truly are my beautiful angel on earth.

Love,
Brian
