

Polar Bear

The polar bear is the world's largest land carnivore and is native to the Arctic. Males weigh 660-1320 pounds (females are half that weight) and standing up they can be up to 11.5 feet tall.

Seal

Baby harp seals are all white, allowing them to blend into the snow. They grow up to 5'6" long and can weigh over 200 pounds, with a horseshoe or harp-shaped pattern on their backs and sides.

Penguin

Penguins are flightless birds who spend most of their life in the water. Not all penguins live in cold regions — several species live in the hot desert regions of South America and southern Africa.

Gray Wolf

Wolves, related to the domestic dog, are primarily found in Canada, Alaska, northern Europe, and Russia. Adults measure up to 6.5 feet in length and weigh 175 pounds. They make their dens in caves, hollow tree trunks, thickets, or holes in the ground that they dig.
