

Mother & Daughter

Nurtured by time, through the highs and the lows,
The love which is theirs ever deepens and grows.
And both turn more patient as days become years,
Growing older and wiser through gladness and tears.

They cling to each other in times of despair,
Taking comfort in knowing the other one's there.
Providing support with a look or a touch,
It's the littlest things, that to them, mean so much!

Deeply concerned with the ones they hold dear,
They mark birthdays and holidays all through the year.
Building family traditions each step of the way,
Sharing good news and bad as they go day to day.

They're a mother & daughter, and right from the start,
They were "forever joined" in a place of the heart.
And the lifetime of love which they willingly give,
Will enhance and sustain them as long as they live!

Copyright 1987 Gerie Grawtine