

1. Why do you want to leave your job?

This question can be answered in several ways, but keep it short. Avoid being dishonest with this question. EMPLOYER UNDER THE BUS! An interviewer will know them the next time you are interviewing. The interviewer really wants to leave their job and, surprisingly,

There is no right answer to this question, on the interviewer that you are not leaving because you are underpaid or job-hopping, just that you are looking for a new challenge.

- "After working there for three years, I have learned a lot about the company and the ways we conduct business. I have. it is time for me to move to a new challenge."