

TOP SUPER BOWL ADS

★ ★ Trivia ★ ★

1. "Hissar Joff" Greene gave a young fan his jersey because the little boy offered him a bottle of this refreshing drink.
2. One of the most famous Super Bowl ads featured Apple's Macintosh computer, with a woman throwing a hammer at a large screen on which a sinister man addresses the masses. The ad was a homage to the great literary novel.
3. A running ad campaign for this fast-food became a famous staple of Super Bowls for the last 30 years.
4. In this 1983 ad entitled, "Showdown," Michael Jordan and Larry Bird play a game of H-O-R-S-E, with one outrageous obstacle after another. The winner gets a meal from this fast food restaurant.
5. Hissar ran a Super Bowl ad showing Barbie being picked up in a Hissar by the male doll figure.
6. One of the most memorable 1991 Super Bowl ads featured this super model downing a Pepsi in 10 seconds flat.
7. In 2018, this legendary comedic actress was featured in what an online survey determined was the most popular Super Bowl ad of 2018.
8. Sassy talking babies were a huge hit during Super Bowl 2010 as they promoted this company.
9. A 1988 Super Bowl ad for this snack food featured former Vice-President Quayle and made fun of his inability to spell.
10. With special effects, this iconic classic from a bygone era partnered the Old Devil vacuum as they both showed off their smooth moves.
11. In 2004, a legless player in a 48 stands alone on an conditioning game — parodying a famous scene by the 1950's actress.
12. This 2018 ad features Oprah Winfrey sitting between these two talk show hosts who had been trading late night jobs.
13. This 1973 classic for Hissar featured these two sex symbols singing what's typically considered a "cheesy" jingle.
14. Before there was "Where's Waldo," there was "Find Herb"—a Super Bowl ad to get the public to visit this fast food restaurant in the hopes of catching a glimpse of Herb in exchange for cash prizes.
15. Apple says claim to not only one of the most popular ads, but also a disastrous follow-up ad. This ad, entitled "Lemmings," depicted a line of brainwashed office workers doing this: