

Table

A table is a piece of furniture consisting of a flat, rectangular top supported by one or more legs. It is commonly used for dining, working, or displaying objects. Tables can be made of various materials, including wood, metal, and plastic. They often have drawers or shelves underneath for storage.

Table

A table is a piece of furniture consisting of a flat, rectangular top supported by one or more legs. It is commonly used for dining, working, or displaying objects. Tables can be made of various materials, including wood, metal, and plastic. They often have drawers or shelves underneath for storage.

Decorative Elements

Decorative Elements

Decorative elements are items used to enhance the appearance of a space. They can include plants, vases, candles, and other objects that add visual interest and personality to a room. These elements are often placed on tables or shelves to create a balanced and aesthetically pleasing environment.

Decorative Elements

Decorative Elements

Decorative elements are items used to enhance the appearance of a space. They can include plants, vases, candles, and other objects that add visual interest and personality to a room. These elements are often placed on tables or shelves to create a balanced and aesthetically pleasing environment.