

FOR MY
husband

As I celebrate your birthday, I think again of when God first brought you into my life.

We've shared a few more years and a few more birthdays since then, and we've discovered that love is so much more than we first imagined.

Love is waking up to each other in the morning and falling asleep beside each other at night.

It's sharing all of life—
the good parts and the hard parts—and knowing no matter what happens we'll always be together.

It's laughing, praying, loving,
and living together.

Love is a gift that we get to open every day.
