

In _____ there once lived a _____ who made laws that said his people had to go to his
_____. If they refused, they were thrown in jail.

When the Pilgrims arrived it was _____. They didn't get enough _____ built, and didn't have enough _____. It was very hard and many pilgrims died.

A group of people called the _____ decided they didn't agree with that.
They wanted religious _____ and to worship on their own.

The next spring, a Native American named _____ taught the pilgrims how to _____ and grow food.
They finished their homes, and had a good _____.

In 1620, _____ Pilgrims, including _____ children, left _____ and set sail for America on the _____. The hard journey took 2 months.

The Pilgrims had much to _____. They had enough food to survive the winter, and wanted to give _____ to their new friends, the _____.