

The image shows a worksheet template with a decorative scalloped border. Inside the border, there are two identical rectangular grids. Each grid is composed of two rows and five columns, resulting in ten empty cells per grid. The grids are positioned one above the other, with a clear gap between them.