

Weight Loss Goal Tracker

Example Worksheet

In this goal tracker, write down your specific, measurable, and attainable goals. Also, keep track of how you feel throughout the day. The focus is not on how much weight you've lost, but rather how you feel about yourself.

Date: November 25-29, 2008

Today's Goal:

How Do I Feel Today?

<input type="checkbox"/>	Sunday	Try a new vegetable stir fry recipe for dinner.	Tired at first, but the light dinner provided an energy boost.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Monday	Go for a 10-minute brisk walk, 3 times today during my breaks.	Felt refreshed after the short walks.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Tuesday	Drink 8 glasses of water throughout the day.	A little bloated throughout the day. The water helped cleanse my system.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Wednesday	Do 50 jumping jacks, three times throughout the day.	Felt a little silly doing the jumping jacks, but I was able to focus more today.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Thursday	Eat a vegetarian diet today (beans, vegetables, and/or fish).	Didn't enjoy the vegetables at first, but didn't feel as 'heavy' after dinner.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Friday	Deny all junk foods and sweets.	This was tough! I was a little irritable because I wanted my sugar fix.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Saturday	Go to the gym for a 45-minute workout.	It took a while to get motivated, but I felt energized after exercising.